TNWA Group offers Game Server rental

Group offers much needed service to large community base

Tuesday – 25th March 2008 – TNWA Group, the UK's leading group of online tournament gaming sites, today proudly announce the offering of Game Server rentals to its community and beyond.

Through a sophisticated, high-tech network, the Group is now set to offer gamers the choice to play on high-performance game servers provided and supported by the leagues in which they play.

TNWA Group already have server support for over 20 of the most popular games today, including Call of Duty 4, Counter-Strike Source and Team Fortress 2. Games are constantly added on release, ensuring the service stays current and on the cusp of the wave at all times.

This Game Server rental service will come as welcome relief to the Group's 200,000+ members who constantly strive to find the best and most reliable service to satisfy their gaming needs.

"We've been working on this for a long time to make this offering the best it can be" said Paul Sulyok, CEO of The TNWA Group, "We see discussion day after day about Game Servers and we felt the best thing to do to help our community was to offer them a high quality point of play on the back of the rapid and efficient level of service and support we already provide. Initial response from the community is that we've done the right thing for them."

Game Server rental is initially being offered on two TNWA Group sites, Enemy Down and X-ray Gaming, with plans to extend the offering across other group sites in the future.
